INTRODUCTION

This bibliography was compiled primarily to provide assistance to researchers in locating information in The Bishop Payne Library collection about the lives and experiences of prominent African American Episcopalians, from 1746 to 2012. The Virginia Theological Seminary Archives http://www.vts.edu/archives houses the Bishop Payne Divinity School records and the African American Episcopal Historical Collection (AAEHC) http://www.vts.edu/aaehc. The AAEHC is a rich repository of primary sources related to African American Episcopalians. It is a strong complement to the broader Bishop Payne Library collection, and some of its holdings are cited in this bibliography.

The individuals represented herein include ordained ministers, lay theologians, business people, and educators. Whatever their field, they all shared a strong commitment to, and were active in, the Episcopal Church. Particular emphasis has been placed on sources pertaining to graduates of The Bishop Payne Divinity School and The Virginia Theological Seminary.

This bibliography is split into two main divisions. The first division is general resources related to African American history and to African American Episcopalians, in particular. It is divided into the following headings: reference sources, studies and documents, articles, and online resources. In the second division, specific African American Episcopalians are given their own sections. The organization of the individual bibliographies follows the pattern of the first division: reference sources, studies and documents, articles, and online resources. If the individual has papers in the AAEHC, it will be listed with each person first under the heading “primary sources.” For a complete listing of the holdings of the AAEHC, please visit http://www.vts.edu/aaehc.

African American Episcopal Historical Collection, The Bishop Payne Library Archives, Virginia Theological Seminary

“[A] joint project with the Historical Society of the Episcopal Church to document the experience of African Americans in the life and ministry of the Episcopal Church. . . . Through documents, institutional records, oral histories, personal papers, and photographs, the collection documents the experience of African American Episcopalians in the U.S.”

The Archives of the Episcopal Church, [Austin, Texas: Episcopal Seminary of the Southwest]

“. . . [T]he official repository for records created by and about the Episcopal Church, related Anglican bodies, and individual Episcopalians . . . actively documents all aspects of mission and ministry, . . . lay and ordained . . . [and] aims to support the understanding of all inquirers who seek to access the past, whether to inform an institutional perspective, to seek an individual appreciation, or to promote the historical dimension of Episcopal and Anglican tradition.” Includes the records of the American Church Institute and a Genealogical Research section

The Church Awakens: African-Americans and the Struggle for Justice, An Exhibit by the Archives of the Episcopal Church USA

“This Web exhibit arose from the combination of an institutional reevaluation of the impact of racism, the motivation of a generous donor, and a staff committed to uncovering the archival legacy of the Church’s African American faithful. In 1993, the Board of the Archives launched a new focus on diversity within the Archives’ expanding acquisition program. The Board and staff identified the Afro-Anglican experience as deserving special attention as a way of responding to the 1991 General Convention’s wide-ranging call for all Church bodies to address the institutional sin of racism and an emerging pattern of forgetting.”

JSTOR*

“Full-text electronic access to 151 academic journals in religion, languages and literature, music, film studies, folklore, feminist & women's studies, performing arts, and the history and study of art and architecture. It provides high-resolution images of journal pages as they were originally printed and illustrated. Because JSTOR's mission is archival, there is a gap, typically from one to five years, between the most recently published journal issue and the back issues available.”
